GREAT AUDIENCE HEARS EVANGELIST

Evangelists Price and McCleskey Grow in Favor With the People of Bryan.

If a constant increase in the audiences that hear a man is indicative of that man's increased favor with the people, Evangelists Price and McCleskey, who are leading the revival campaign at the air dome are growing in the good graces of the people of Bryan. A great week night crowd was at the service last night. The big chorus platform was filled with singers and there were many additions to the sunshine choir. Some new songs were sung and they were caught up by the choir and audience in fine fashion. Some of the greatest chorus singing Bryan has heard is promised.

Mr. Price's subject last night was "Judgment Begins at the House of God." The sermon was a most searching one and made a deep impression. Mr. Price shoots straight and sure, but he is so manifestly full of sympathy for the man who is not right that he leaves no stings. He awakens, but does not abuse.

The attendance at the morning service today was the best for the week, and at the close more than two-thirds of the audience came forward, blessing themselves to new effort in behalf of their unconverted loved ones and friends.

Services were announced for Saturday morning and evening and special stress was laid on a men's meeting to be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

HISTORIC TABLET UNVEILED.

Alexandria, Va., May 8.—A handsome mural tablet commemorating Colonial events in the history of this city, the gift of the Colonial Dames of America, will be unveiled this afternoon. The tablet has been placed in the city hall building, and appropriate ceremonies will be observed. There will be an address by John W. Davis, Solicitor General of the United States. In Alexandria was the headquarters of General Braddock during the French-Indian war, and the council of Royal Governors, on which occasion Washington received his appointment as aide to General Braddock, and at which the first suggestion was made of taxing the American colonies, took place in this city in the Carlyle House. In the year 1754 Washington had his headquarters in the old city tavern, as colonel of the Virginia militia, and from this hostelry General Washington issued his last military order, when reviewing the Independent Blues in November, 1788.

ANARCHY MAY TRAIL FALL OF HUERTA

Though Not Announced, It Is Known Officials Want Large Force at Vera Cruz.

Washington, May 8.—Secretary Garrison late last night said General Funston had transmitted information refugees had brought from the City of Mexico as to conditions in the Mexican capital.

The Secretary declined to comment on them. He said, however, that no aggressive movement by the American forces had been ordered.

It was understood that the refugees from the City of Mexico had informed General Funston of the critical aspect of affairs in the Huerta regime, that a collapse might be expected momentarily and that conditions of anarchy might ensue.

The purpose of General Funston in making known these reports to the War Department was believed to be to advise the Washington administration of the possibilities that might develop from a fall of Huerta in order that if the American army is compelled to rescue foreigners or restore order it may be fully equipped for such an expedition.

Though not officially stated, it is known that high officials of the War Department are anxious to place at Vera Cruz or on transports within striking distance a large enough force, perhaps 40,000 or 60,000 men, to make an expedition to the City of Mexico if it becomes necessary. Officials of the War Department are known to believe that if an advance on the City of Mexico is ordered it will be necessary to guard every mile of the railroad as the army moves forward and that a large force would show the natives the futility of resistance, whereas a division of 15,000 men might be subject to several attacks along the route, with possibly big losses.

American army officers also regard the situation at Vera Cruz as likely to become desperate in the event that anarchy breaks out in Mexico or the force of General Maas should make an attack on their own initiative irrespective of the Huerta government's promise of a suspension of hostilities against the United States.

[By Associated Press]

Washington, May 8.—The Mexican situation assumed a more warlike aspect today. After the increased activities of the War Department Secretary of War Garrison said no additional troop movement had been ordered. However, the attitude of the War Department disclosed the fact that every preparation was being made for any eventualities. It was known that General Funston's confidential cipher message and the War Department's decision that he needed reinforcements was discussed in a Cabinet meeting.

BRYAN SAYS NO VIOLATION.

[By Associated Press]

Washington, May 8.—That Huerta is quibbling again, is the officials' opinion here regarding the complaint to the mediators that the United States is violating the armistice by holding Vera Cruz and strengthening her forces there. Secretary of State Bryan pointed out there was no formal armistice. The mediators suggested there was an armistice. Mr. Bryan said it was assumed there would be no hostilities while mediating. Mr. Bryan pointed out that The Hague convention signed by the United States and Mexico provides that mediation is not to interrupt mobilization and other preparations unless specifically agreed to. It is also not to stop military preparations in progress unless by special agreement. The informal understanding is the Americans are only to repel attacks during the progress of the mediation. It is authoritatively learned the mediators hope to convince Huerta that the United States has not been violating the armistice as agreed upon.

[By Associated Press]

[By Associated Press]

THE QUEEN'S NEW DRESS.

The Queen Theatre opened last night to the public after a few weeks' repairs caused by the recent fire, and the old building has undergone a complete remodeling throughout as well as that part which sustained injuries by the fire.

The interior walls have been repainted, the lighting system improved and the electric fans have undergone a decided change for the better, with new floor coverings, which altogether gives a pleasing, cool and comfortable appearance.

We were shown through the operating rooms, our first look in, and if it is possible to make this department more perfect or freer from fire we were unable to see it. This room is lined throughout with double steel and contains a trap which can be worked from the office and make it absolutely airtight in a moment. The machines are both new and of the most improved type, guaranteeing the best pictures possible to produce.

Those attending the opening yesterday could readily see and appreciate the improvements just made, which will no doubt make the Queen as popular as she deserves.
